

Lily's genuine passion for professional development and ability to leverage her strategic connections has been the secret weapon that has seen the Australian Institute of Office Professionals (AIOF) NT Division transform to one of the fastest growing Divisions in Australia and a formidable presence on the professional membership scene. Throughout the (years) on the committee where she currently serves as President, Lily's commitment to returning value to members has resulted in a record number of innovative, sold-out events and a growing list of committed partnerships across media and business including Charles Darwin University.

Lily honed her leadership skills as an assistant manager of a small team in a national retail chain quickly achieving her Certificate IV in Retail Management. Having ignited her passion for education, Lily went on to complete her Bachelor of Commerce Degree in 2018, specialising in Management and Marketing.

Lily's boundless energy and drive along with her diverse skills and experience are well utilised in her role at the Halikos Group which is a multi-faceted company with interests across seven industries as diverse as development, construction, real estate and retail. Lily is the Executive Assistant to the Managing Director and Marketing Manager, and is proud to be part of a Territory owned and operated business employing almost 400 people. Lily is also the Chair of the Halikos Helping Hands committee which is a staff run group that raises money for local charities.

Lily's received national recognition in 2017, when Lily was a finalist in the CEO Magazine Executive of the Year Awards, Executive Assistant category. In 2016, Lily was the Runner Up in the Executive PA Magazine Excellence Awards, 'Up and Coming' Category.